Knowledge, whilly used, is some thing more than power; it is safety against whole armies of dangers, a countiese number of linking and secret foes lying in wait to assail our peace, and, if possible, to destroy our happiness. They vary in kind as much as in degree. The crimes that blacken every populous community are due chiefly to real ignorance as to their nature, and certain consequences to their nature. And certain consequences to their perpetrators. The various shades of insanity itself are undoubtedly referable in many, perhaps in most instances to the same cause, viz. Ignorance of the effect of a violation of the crist laws of his being, which cannot possibly be violated without inevitable retribution, a retribution which, though it may be evaded for the moment, is surely on the track of the culrit, and which, in some shape or other, he can

There is another remedy in vogue in Brooklyn, N. Y., which I have seen used to good ruppose. It is to bore a hole in the tree (say futul four to six feet from the bottom of the trunk) one inch in diameter and from three to six incluss deep, according to the size of the tree. Insert in this a roll of brimstone and coak up the hole. The brimstone continually becomes absorbed and should be renewed every spring. But now certainly the tar-baniate should be placed on every tree, and if, instead of an ordinance requiring trees to be cut down, the Common Cauncil would pars one requiring all private and public trees this pest. A comparative stranger in your city, I had wondered why there was no provision made to step the ravages of catterpillars, but, until I had seen your article, supposed you were not troubled by them; but, evidently, such is not the case.

A person calling himself Texas, and well-known by that name, had committed a series of outrages in the neighborhood of Budstown, and had concealed himself so effectually in the thick woods of that region that be could not be ariested by any of the ordinary means within the control of the military authorities. To other 18s carture I made an agreement with Berry and Minchell, in consequence of which Texas was given into my hands by them. And this was the agreement made with Berry and Minchell: That, if they would give Texas into my hands, I would parsie them, and they should go free for any offences they had committed, previded they had my dered no person for money or Union sentiannes, and that if I should find they were accused of any murder, I would retake them, if possible. would retake them, if possible.

Hump backer Province—A Frenchman, who has bump-backe on the brain, has devoted much time in investigations as to the monography of hump backed persons. It is in Europe, nuder the temperate zone, that he has found the first. They are most numerons in Spain, principally in a small locality at the foot of the Sierra Morens. One is tound there in every thirteen inhabitants; in South America, Buenos Ayres, etc., he found the least. In France, the department of the livine contains the greatest number; the deformity exists there like an epidemie; in Orleans the backs seem to be cut in every shape and pattern. A singular fact is this: The deformity has an intimate rapports with the conformity has an intimate rapports with the conaverage hight of every tump being seven and a half Inches, and the given population of the earth being one thousand millions, in multiplying the million of Immp books it contains with help hot of the bumps it will give 625,000 feet. THE EXECUTIVE PROCLAMATIONS -The procone of the President which appeared yesday under our telegraphic head have been of

The first relates to a provisional government Mississippi, and announces the appointment Hon. Wm. L. Sharkey as its Provisional Gov. or. This had already been anticipated, and per steps have been taken to restore order loyalty to that State, naturally one of the chest and most important in the Union. It ends from the vicinity of Memphis to the It is one of those States that have been cursed with political demagogues and trading politias intent only upon office and their own agrandizement. There is no State in which secion was more rampant and ferocious except uth Carolina, and none in which the services of an able, judicious, and high-toned gentleman at the head of affairs are more requisite in order restore peace, order, industry, and loyalty to

Of Judge Sharkey we have spoken in a previissue. His appointment to the Provisional Governorship is a most felicitous one in every way, and will be attendcannot doubt, by the happiest re sults. Long identified with the State, Intimately acquainted with its people, sympathiz ing with them, and knowing their wants and necessities, and what is demanded by the exigencies of the occasion; of sterling integrity, without crotchets, and for nearly half a century a Constitutional Union man, he is the most diable person for Governor of Missis ippl that the President could have selected. Furthermore, his appointment abows how completely ident Johnson has thrown off party shackles and disperarded the affiliations of the past. Whis of the Clay and Webster school, and consequently all his life opposed to the party with when an agent is wanted by the latter to reorgapize the civil Government of a great State, he among his old opponents. This is acting as Washington did, and comes up to the old Jefonian rule, Is he honest? Is he capable? Is he faithful? This rule has fallen very much into desuctude of late years, and we hope Mr. Johnson will restore it. It requires extraordipary nerve and moral courage, we know, but the clory of doing it, if it be done, will there-

It will be observed upon reperusing the proclamation that the Executive has taken special pains to guard the State against the danper of felsting upon it any convention or Legislature which is not the work of the real and have the right to vote, be declares, who has not taken the amnesty oath, and is not a voter, laws of the State of Mississippi, in force immedistely before the 9th of January, 1861, the date of the so-called ordinance of secession. and the said convention, when convened, or the Legislature that may be thereafter assembled. will prescribe the qualification of electors and the eligibility of persons to hold office under the ation and laws of the State, a power e people of the several States comprising the Federal Union have rightfully exercised from the origin of the Government." That is just the position we took the othe day when commenting upon the action of the President, in reference to North Carolina, in remitting the question of negro suffrage to the respective States concerned, where and where only it belongs. What becomes, then, of all the ronsense about negro suffrage in Ken- this language: ignore the Constitution as to pass an act pre-ecribing the qualifications of voters in any State-a supposition almost too absurd to voto would crush it? The Executive is as far from centralization and the obliteration of State lines, under any pretense whatever, as he is from secession and unlification. He is, as his actions incontestably prove, in favor of preserving to the States all their just rights, the exercise of all their appropriate powers as laid 'wn in the Constitution, as developed by the grat founders of the Republic, and observed generally by statesmen of the Washington and Madison school from the organization of the

Secession and centralization are part and percel of the same odious system; they both presume to override the Constitution, and ab equally violatelt. They are twin bastards, whose strangulation the public good requires

The other proclamation sweeps away all restrictions upon trade and commerce, internal, domestic and coastwise intercourse-with the aception of articles contraband of war specified, and "those which relate to the reservation of the right of the United States to property purchased in the territory of the (late) enemy east of the Mississippi river-and announces that, on the first of July, all restrictions upon foreign commerce, with the exception and reservation mentioned, with the ports east of that stream shall be removed. This is a most important measure and will everywhere be halled by the commercial, trading and agricultural munity with the liveliest satisfaction, as the herald of better days. It will everywhere hasten the restoration of order and of law. It will bring relief to multitudes in all the Southern States by the revival of business which it will cause. It will afford a stimulus to industry and enterprise, and bring visions of the old-time prosperity and happiness to impoverished and wretched people. Basiness is a great annihilator of spleen. Prospery makes a man wonderfully good natured. The people of the South will have nothing to do now but to go to work, as isw-abiding citinens, and develop their great resources, and cover up the ravages of war with the blessings of peace. Let them co-operate heardly with the Government in re-organizing civil authority in the various States upon the basis which nas been adopted, and from which there eau be no deviation, and they will soon forget in a meacure, the ead and terrible nightmare of the darkness past in the bright and glowing ant' ipations of the light which has at last fairly dawned upon them. This is at once their duty and will be for their highest, permanent interests, moral and ma-

Can we apply the remedy by standing idly by and permitting ourselves to be controlled by the inevitable events of the hour? Were it not better and wiser that we not only recognize the existing facts, but make them the basis of action in shaping our State policy? If we act we can exert a controlling influence for our future good; if we remain luactive we terior influence affecting our present and future

We say, therefore, that those men who, through the press and on the stump, are urging the people of Kentucky to vote against the amendment, are but urging the people to submit to be over-ridden by inevitable events which might, in a great degree, be controlled by never lost sight of Kentucky interests, howsoever earnest we have been in advocating the Government of the Union. We have labored to reserve slavery in this State, and, perhaps, more effectively than any other public journal; but when we clearly witnessed the utter destruction of the institution, not only in Kentuck but throughout the South, we determined to urge the people to adapt themselves to the new order of things necessarily arising. Casting aside the prejudices of the past, we then sought, as we are now doing, to impress Kentneky with the irrevocable fact that there can be no more African slavery in the Cuited States, with a view to inducing them to prepare for and accept the inevitable destiny before them.

We now tell the people of Kentucky that no Judge Sharkey has always been an Old Line less they act for themselves in getting rid of slavery, even in its remnant state, they will b compelled to do so la obedience to the irretendency of affairs. The Journal can't avert the great result foreshadowed, for it is beyond the infinence of the press, nor can the people of the seks such agent not among his old friends, but | State, though they should vote unanimously against it. Our practical view is that, inasmuch as emancipation is already a foregone conclusion, we should emancipate as quickly as possible, and thereby prepare ourselves the sooner for dealing with difficulties which may attend the new order of affairs. The policy of 'masterly inactivity," as Mr. Calhoun once called it, will be suicidal to the State, to its seace and prosperity.

The people of Kentucky should reflect that the men who are now opposing the amendment neither expect to save slavery, nor prevent the ratification of the Constitut Amendment. They know that slavery has been abolished, and that the amendment will become a part of the Federal Constitution. The only purpose of these men is to ride into office abolitionists themselves. The people should at control and dispose of it now and forever.

Art. IV, sec. 7, page 133, is as follows, viz: If a vacancy shall occur in said Court from any cause, the Governor shall issue a writ of election to the proper district to fill the vacancy for the residue of the term: provided that it the unexpired term be less than one year the Governor shall appoint the Judge to fill such vacancy.

It is evident from the citations above the when a vacancy occurs for a longer term than one year, the Governor "shall have power to fill such vacancy by granting a commission. which shall expire when such vacancy shall have been filled "for the residue of the term" by the election held pursuant to "a writ of election to the proper district," issued by the Governor, as required by the constitutional clause. The Governor in such case only "fills" the vacancy until 'the residue of the term' is filled by an "election in the proper district." But it less than one year remains when the vacancy occurs the Governer "appoints" a "Judge to fill an h vacancy." In the one case he "nils" until "filled" by an election-in the other he "appoints" to fill, &c. When he fins a vacancy granting a commission, it expires when filled by an election; but when he appoints a Judge to fill such vacancy there is no expiration by any other filling of the vacancy. The two sections of the Constitution on this subject may be properly rendered thus: If a vacancy shall occur in said court from ny cause, the Governor shall have power to of such vacancy by granting a commission, hich shall expire when such vacancy shall have been filled, according to the provisions of this Constitution, by an election in the proper district for the residue of the term, pursuant to a writ of election issued by the Governor to the proper district; provided, that, if the unexpired arm be less than one year, the Governor chall uppoint a Judge to full such a vacancy.

The Governor fills by commission, lu the one case, to expire when such vacancy shall have been filled, &c. On the other hand, he appoint. to fall for the residue of the term. Having this view of the constitutional ques tion, Governor Bramlette sent a 'commission' to William Sampson, Esq , to expire when the vacancy shall have been filled, according to the stitution, by an election to be holden in the Third Appellate District, Monday, 7th Angust next, for which "a writ of election" has been much good. A few days since Lt.-Gen. Winfield Scot and Lt.-Gen. U. S. Grant met each other at the Military Academy of West Point, and the Inter_ view between them is represented as having been exceedingly affecting. Prior to the rebel tion, Gen. Scott, the hero of Lundy's Lane and Mexico, was justly regarded as the representa e military spirit of the nation. He had borne the brunt of every war since the Republic was established, and his renown had become an esential part of our national history. Though true to the imperilled Union from first to last, he venerable hero, who had led our armies t the very Halle of Montezuma, was too feeble to endure the hardships of the late great conflict ut his brave spirit followed the Flag through very battle from the Potomac to the Gulf. Gen. cott won his military fame while leading American troops against a foreign foe; but It was the destiny of Gen. Grant to achieve the nors which now crowd upon him lu coufii with the domestic enemies of the Union. While scting, therefore, at different periods and in difent arenas, it was the grand mission of each o maintain the existence of the nation itself. When General Grant anived at West Point e was cordially and affectionately greeted by

"God Bless you! God bless you and pre-rive you!" said Gen. Scott, taking General rantiby the hand.
"Thank you. I am glad to see you, and to now that you are so well," responded Gen.

I am thankful that you have passed through o many perils said, and that you have brough the country out of its great peril," continue the venerable Lieutenant General. Thank you," again responded Genera

Such were the warm and simple terms in which the immortal heroes expressed themselves to each other after the great wars through which they had passed. The scene was full o inexpressible interest-one which the nation may contemplate with unmingled pride. We are grateful to Providence that Gev. Scott, representing the spirit of our early military hi tory, has been spared through the last four years, and is permitted to behold the nation's anthority, for which he has struggled so glori ously again t a foreign foe, vindicated against he schemes of the great rebellion, and we rejoice that the recent meeting occurred between himself and Gen. Grant, who stands at the head of the immortal veterans who have so itely redeemed the nation from the perils of

SPECIAL NOTICES:

A Broken-Down System.

There is a direase to which the doctors give many names, but which few of them understand. It is simply eakness-a breaking down of the vital forces. What ever its can-ce (and they are innumerable), its symp toma are in the main the same. Among the most prom incut are extreme lassitude, loss of appetite, loss of flesh, and great mental depression. Indigestion and a Stow ach Cough are also frequently concomitants of this dia treating state of body and of mind. The commen re mark in relation to possons in such a condition is the they are consumptive. Now, what these nufortunate eally want is river-rital strength; and as certainly a lawn encodeds darkness they can recoperate their sys ems and regain perfect health by resorting to HOSTET TER'S CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS. It is a clear that a life-reviving Tonic is required in such case as that the dying flame of an empty lamp requires to be nnechous, containing nothing but the most genial vas table extracts, and combining the three grand ele ments of a stomachic, an alterative, and a genial invi orant, Hosverren's Burrens are suitable to all con titutions, and are as applicable to the diseases and dise

The Grand Commander of the Krights Templars, now in session here, formed them in lite previous to the arrival of the train Phey were dressed in full regalla and accompanied by a splendid band. They arranged themselves in double column at the depot, in front of the Logan House. The line extended from the track to the door by, which the General was to enter the hotel. The train stopped a short distance above the depot to take on some appointed to inform the General of the arrangements made for him. The crowd of people, which numbered the mands, occupied every available place. It was with difficult, that they con due kept in fine when the train halted. The appearance of General Grant upon the platform was the signal for deafening cheers, while the band stanck up "Hail to the Chiel." He was received at the head of the column by Sir Knights Strickland, Turner, and Robinson, after which he passed between the lines, hat in hand, while the crowd sent ny cheer after cheer. The ladies waved their hand-keechiefs and showered bouquets in his path. The column remained till the General had becaklasted, when he passed ont between them as he ettered. At a recent meeting of the French Academy, these papers were read: "On the Preserva tion and Improvement of Wines." All were more or less occupied with an examination of the effect produced in wines by the application of heat. The first author, M. de Vergnette Lamotte, having noticed that Burgundy was improved by a voyage to Calcutta, made experi ents on wines kept at a warm temperature. The conclusion at which he has arrived was that when little air is in contact with it, a high temperature does not hurt the wine, but, on the contrary, improves it. M. Pasteur, who read the next note, stated a simple and practical method by which this besting could be applie heated to 64° C for half-an-hour would be better for k eping than a wine not so heated, for in the former case the oxygen was excluded, to ration of many wines. The other paper on this subject was communicated by M. Ladrey at

"No walls," said the king, "that is your opinion now, but come and breakfast with me to mornow, but come and breaking with me to more row and I'll show you the 'walle of Sparta.''
The next day, at the appointed time, the deputation of led on Ages and, who, taking them out, showed them the Spartan in lita drawn up in formidable lines. "There," said he, "are the walle of Sparta; each man is a brick." Hence are the saving now so current, especially it the purely classical quarters of our town.
